"In February 2017, we introduced No Nonsense Phonics Skills as an intervention tool.

The impact of the programme on the focus group we trialled was so dramatic that following the Y1 phonics check results in June 2017, we invited author Debbie Hepplewhite into school to work with us in September 2017.

In 2018 our phonics check results were at 94%, having risen from 78% the previous year."

Rachel Field, Headteacher, Ashfield Infant and Nursery School, Cumbria

"Teachers and teaching assistants are working hard providing phonics, language and literature-rich experiences in every school. Becoming more effective is not about working harder but all about practical changes – what to change that will make the difference with the same staff and the same children. Years of specialism in this field means I can support staff to build on their achievements to date – and very quickly at that." - Debbie Hepplewhite
